Subject: Orthopedic Referral for Refractory Left Knee Pain

Dear Dr. Carter,

I am referring my patient, Arthur Pendelton, for a surgical evaluation regarding his chronic left knee pain. Arthur has been under my care for progressive joint deterioration over the past three years. The pain is now severely limiting his activities of daily living. We have exhausted primary conservative measures in my clinic, including weight management counseling and prolonged NSAID therapy (Celecoxib 200mg daily), without meaningful improvement.

Given his functional decline, I am formally referring him to your orthopedic specialty clinic to evaluate his candidacy for a Total Knee Arthroplasty. Attached are his recent radiology reports and therapy logs.

Warm regards,

Dr. Samuel Vance, MD
